Discard Smoked Fish Products, FDA Advises

DETROIT (AP) — The botulism food poisoning scare flared anew today with a federal agency's recommendation that housewives get rid of smoked fish products which came from the Great Lakes area.

The Food and Drug Administration in Washington Friday night urged homemakers to destroy any smoked fish products they have under refrigeration, provided the fish were caught in the Great Lakes or processed in Great Lakes area plants.

FDA Commissioner George P. Larrick said he issued the emergency advisory because of the "deadly nature of botulism poisoning and the occurrence of seven deaths in the last few weeks from botulism associated with smoked whitefish and chubs produced in the Great Lakes area."

One Shipment Traced
An advisory committee of scientific experts told the FDA, Larrick said, that 5 recent deaths in Tennessee and Alabama were attributed to one lot of smoked "whitefish chubs."

The product was shipped to a Nashville, Tenn., grocery chain warehouse by a Michigan firm. H. J. Dornbos & Bro. of Grand Haven, Mich., halted processing of smoked fish after the shipment was traced to its plant. The company had said it planned to resume operations early next week, pending the outcome of laboratory tests of its fish samples.

Two other deaths—those of a Kalamazoo, Mich. couple—also were blamed on botulism Type E poisoning. But authorities said they never were able to find the source of the fish eaten by the victims.

Canned Items OK

The latest development from Washington was accompanied by announcements that Michigan officials seized stocks of two state processing plants and that Chicago Health Commissioner Samuel Andelman ordered that all smoked fish products in city stores and warehouses be inspected and urged the city's housewives to destroy all such foods on their shelves. Andelman said 90 investigators will work on the case all week-end.

The FDA singled out fish products that are packaged in sealed plastic wrappers and those that are sold in bulk without any wrappers. Canned products are not involved, the agency said.

Michigan authorities said they found the organisms—Clostridium botulinum—in samples of smoked fish from the St. Joseph Fisheries of St. Joseph, Mich., and Royal Snack Food, Inc., of Detroit.

Two Young Men Admit Detroit Knife Killing

DETROIT (AP) — Two young ex-convicts were held today in the robbery slaying of Alexander F. Kourmadas, knifed to death in his flower shop Sept. 5.

Police said Warren G. Hardy, 18, and Thomas Berry Jr., 29, both of Detroit, confessed.

The two were arraigned on murder charges Friday. The court took no pleas from them, pending its appointment of defense counsel. Police said Berry admitted he held a knife on Kourmadas and that in a struggle with him "my knife went into his neck." Police said Berry insisted this was accidental.

Navy Won't Get Nuclear Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy's hope for building a second nuclear-powered carrier has been torpedoed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He ordered an immediate start Friday on a carrier with standard power.

The word was passed to the Navy a few hours before admirals and captains gathered by the hundreds at a dinner for their annual celebration of "Navy Day"—which really isn't until Sunday.

McNamara, exponent of cost effectiveness in defense spending, had been cool to the idea of putting nuclear instead of conventional power in carrier No. CVA 67 for which Congress provided funds a year ago. But he held off on a final decision until Friday. When he announced it, the cost difference—at least $435 million for atomic versus $310 million for conventional power—wasn't emphasized.

Instead, he said his action was "motivated by a desire to avoid further delay," although he elsewhere mentioned cost differences. He said the Navy had requested delay while it studied the possibility of using atomic instead of conventional power.

But now he has ordered the Liquor Agents Shot Dead In Dance Hall Raid

BRENT, Ala. (AP)—Two federal liquor agents were killed and two other persons wounded in a gun battle Friday night at a dance hall suspected of selling moonshine whiskey.

Dead are Ralph Holt and Joe Cooper, who were gunned down after serving a search warrant on the white operator, Tom Tidwell.

Holt and Cooper were agents with the alcoholic tax and tobacco unit out of Tuscaloosa. They were with two other agents and a state officer on a raid of the establishment.

Harold Hartcraft, an agent, said Tidwell opened fire on the two men with a pistol.

Tidwell was then shot at least twice by officers. Hartcraft said, Tidwell was taken to a hospital in Marion.

A Negro woman, Sally Perry, about 30, was wounded in the arm.

Hartcraft said the officers were looking for moonshine whiskey at the dance hall. It is reportedly patronized largely by Negroes.

Time Retreats In 17 States

NEW YORK (AP) — Time marches on, so the expression goes. But Sunday, in 17 states time retreats.

Some 90 million Americans will regain the hour they lost last spring when they turned their clocks back one hour.

The change, effective at 2 a.m. Sunday, marks the annual switchover from daylight saving time to standard time.

Car Hauled Away

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—While Arthur W. Seaton had dinner out Friday night, a big tow truck pulled up to Seaton's car. The trucker jumped out, winched up the car's front wheels and hauled it away.

Seaton said he certainly was surprised to find his car gone. He said it didn't need repairs,

Rescuers Give Up Hope For 39 In German Mine

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP) — Authorities abandoned hope today for 39 miners trapped in a flooded iron mine since Thursday night, but said four other men are expected to be saved.

The announcement by the mine management came after 11 relatives of the missing men, who had been keeping a steady vigil since the disaster, stormed the mine office demanding information.

Rescue workers, many of whom had toiled through the night, continued their search despite the announcement.

The management declined to give any other details but it is believed the four are huddled in a chamber in the east section of the mine, with their escape blocked by water.

Some of the 39 men are believed trapped in chambers of the mine's water-swept gallery, as far as 300 feet below ground.

Engineers bored through the ground to open a shaft so a narrow communications tube could be pushed down to the gallery. This tube would first establish whether any men were still living, and if so, enable food and drink to be sent down. If any are found alive, a wider boring will be made so they can be hauled to the surface.

Experts said this would take two or three days.

The miners were reported to range in age between 26 and 54. All were said to have been married and fathers of a total 77 children.

Seventy-nine men escaped after the dam burst, which spilled thousands of gallons of water into the mine from an ore-washing reservoir and sealed it at both ends. Seven more men were hauled out on a raft Friday night after the water level dropped to open up one end of the arched gallery.

The seven emerged soaked in mud but uninjured. They were taken to a hospital.

A search team penetrated one mile through the eastern section of the mine in a rubber boat, but radioed back that it found no sign of the missing men.

At the pithead, groups of relatives and friends grimly waited for news. This northwest German village of 2,000, about 12 miles from the city of Brunswick, gets its livelihood from the mine and some machine plants.

A drilling machine cut a shaft toward the gallery to send down a "rescue bomb"—a metal tube about 10 feet long—that could haul any miners to the surface. The operation was similar to the procedure used in the rescue of two Americans, Henry Throne and David Fellin, from a coal mine near Hazleton, Pa., Aug. 27.

Two-Car Wreck On Foggy U.S. 31 Takes 3 Lives

SCOTTVILLE (AP) — A Muskegon couple and a 23-year-old Ludington man were killed Friday night in a two-car smashup on a fog-bound stretch of U.S. 31 about seven miles north of Scottville in Mason County.

Killed were Vernon H. Henry, 64, and his wife, Daisy, 67, residents of a Muskegon Heights trailer park, and Danny Lee Utz, 23.

Utz' companion, Larry Rohr, also of Ludington, was injured.

Troopers at the Manistee State Police Post said the car in which Utz and Rohr were traveling south on U.S. 31 apparently went out of control after an attempt to pass another auto and was hit broadside by the Henry's car.

Rickover Says U.S. Education Is Frill-Laden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice Adm. Hyman G. Rickover has loosed another blistering attack on U.S. public education, calling it soft, frill-laden, anti-intellectual and administered by incompetents.

There were indications that those who have stood most firmly at his side are finding his advocacy of European education too strong.

Rickover was a featured speaker Friday night at the annual meeting of the Council for Basic Education, a nonprofit organization dedicated to "the encouragement and maintenance of high academic standards in the American public schools."

His membership is made up of educators and laymen who believe, with Rickover, that public education in this country leaves much to be desired. The council in the past has given wide publication to Rickover's views.

Rickover told the council, "The plain fact is that the educational value of a school year is at least a third higher abroad than here. European standards of teacher education are notably higher. Europeans attain any given educational level years before our children get there. We shall in the end have to accept separate schooling at the secondary level—on the European pattern."

Immediately after his speech, a panel which had shared the speakers' platform with Rickover took the admiral to task and declared unanimously that this country need not, and should not, copy the European system of education.

Audience reaction indicated overwhelming approval of the panel's views.

Glittering Ball Nets $200,000 For Charity

NEW YORK (AP) — Klieg lights emblazoned the sky Friday night as 1,800 persons pressed against the roped-off entrance to the Americana Hotel to witness the annual grand entrance to the biggest, most expensive charity ball in the country.

Movie stars, royalty, international society, a Russian ambassador — 1,350 people all told — paid $150 each to be applauded by the crowds as they made their way into the 12th annual April in Paris Ball.

Elisa Maxwell, founder of the gala affair, arrived in a wheelchair.

Seated not far from her was still another famous hostess, Washington's Pearl Mesta.

East Lansing Child Hunted For 12 Hours

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Tiny, blonde 5-year-old Michelle Moran, kidnaped from her mother's car at a shopping center Friday night, was found alive in a roadside ditch a few miles from here today.

The little girl, missing 12 hours, had been molested, a doctor's report indicated after an examination at a hospital.

A huge search meanwhile went on for Michelle's abductor, described by a brother of the girl as a dark-complexioned, slender young man wearing eyeglasses, a stranger to the boy.

Two truck drivers on their way from Chicago to Saginaw found Michelle lying in a ditch near Michigan 78 near Williamston, east of here.

Sighted At 7 a. m.
Hundreds of police and volunteers had been searching for Michelle. Police cruisers swept a 13-county area around Lansing, Michigan's capital city.

Dr. Irving Silverman examined Michelle. Silverman said Michelle had been "frightened and shocked." He also said she had been bruised.

Police Det. Lt. Larry Murphy said it was a case of criminal assault.

Michelle's mother, Mrs. Donna Moran, a divorcee, hastened to the hospital from her home, taking with her Michelle's favorite doll.

The truck drivers, Stanley Van Wagoner and Max Apsey, came upon Michelle about 7 a.m.

Van Wagoner told police he saw the child, stopped his truck, and walked back to Apsey's vehicle. Apsey also had stopped.

"I just spotted a girl," Van Wagoner said he told Apsey. "It must be the one we heard about on the radio."

At the moment a sheriff's car was going by the trucks. The sheriff's car stopped and came back, picked up Michelle and dashed with her to the hospital.

Note In Shoe
Sheriff's men said they found an unintelligible, hand-written note in one of Michelle's tennis shoes which lay near her.

Mrs. Moran was shopping for Halloween toys and candies in a drug store. Two other children, Lisa, 7, and Christiana, 2, accompanied her.

The children's father, George, was at his home in Grand Rapids, Mich. Police said. Detectives said Moran, a controller for a Grand Rapids Industrial firm, convinced them he had no knowledge of the abduction.

Michelle's brother, Frank, 8, gave this chilling account:

The man, described as about 25 and wearing glasses, parked his car about six spaces from the Moran auto at a shopping center. He walked back to the Moran car, leaned his head inside, and told Michelle: "Come here."

Pulled Out Of Car
Michelle and Frank huddled together on the back seat as the man opened the door.

"He told her to 'come here' again," the boy said.

The stranger then slapped Michelle. She lay down on the seat and tried to hide behind two shopping bags.

"He got inside the car and pulled her arm and made her get outside with him," Frank said.

As he led her toward his car, the man's manner changed. He talked gently to Michelle, Frank said.

Frank described the abductor as 5-foot-11, dark complexioned, with dark brown hair and dressed in a dirty T shirt and brown trousers. He said the man's car was a 1962 or 1963 model (Chevrolet) two-door, either black or brown and white.

Disaster Site Has Landslide

UDINE, Italy (AP)—Another huge landslide slid from Mt. Toccia today in the partly emptied Vaiont Dam reservoir where a giant slide Oct. 9 caused a flood that took 3,000 lives. Authorities said the new landslide caused no new damage.

Hurricane Still Menaces Coast

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Hurricane Ginny, still a dangerous, unpredictable lass, romped near the North Carolina coast today after offering a brief reprieve during the early morning hours.

The erratic storm, which became a hurricane 90 miles off Cape Hatteras last week and then slipped southward to Florida's coast and back, headed out to sea shortly before midnight. But, resuming its former hesitancy to keep a definite course, she shuttled in toward land early today.

Ginny became almost stationary at a point about 60 statute miles southeast of Wilmington. The Weather Bureau said there was "likelihood" that her center and highest winds would remain offshore.

"Conditions still favor resumption of an east northeast movement at 9 miles per hour later this morning," the Weather Bureau said. "However, precautions should be continued along the southeastern North Carolina coast until this course is definitely established."

The eye of the storm became poorly defined after it came to a seeming halt near latitude 33.7 north and longitude 77.1 west.

Ginny's about-face today regained for her some of the attention she had lost to Helena, a new tropical storm which has developed deep in the Caribbean.

Ginny brought heavy rain and hurricane force gusts to the mainland. Wilmington received 3.5 inches of rain during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today.

Gusts up to 100 miles per hour were reported by the Oak Island Coast Guard station 20 miles south of Wilmington. Wind and rain increased all along the coast.

The highway patrol and local officers at the resort towns of Carolina Beach and Wrightsville Beach said no serious damage had been reported.

Ginny's behavior was not easy to follow even on the return trip. She appeared to stall at times, only to start her shifting, stumbling motion just as it appeared she might be ready to stop completely.

Not Candidate, Romney Insists

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. George Romney of Michigan said today he "will not be a candidate" for the Republican presidential nomination next year and that "this is not a pose."

Romney made the comment to newsmen as he boarded an American Airlines plane for Detroit.

Asked if he might reconsider his stand if some emergency indicated that he should run, he replied: "There is no circumstance I can think of under which I would become a candidate."

The governor has been in New York since Thursday.

Asked who was the front-runner for the nomination at this point, he said, "I think the polls indicate that Sen. (Barry) Goldwater at this point is in the lead."

Asked if he thought this lead could be overcome, he replied: "certainly—the nomination has not yet been settled."

Romney told newsmen, "I made a commitment when I ran for governor that I would not be a candidate in 1964, and I will not become a candidate. This is not a pose. It is my position."

Prime Minister Campaigning

PERTH, Scotland (AP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home opened his election campaign today with a pledge to expand Britain's economy and social services and maintain the nation's nuclear force.

Unveiling a program clearly designed to steal some of the opposition Labor party's thunder, Douglas-Home scoffed at critics who said his appointment meant a conservative swing to the right.

"We are going straight ahead, and straight ahead fast," he said at a political rally marking the start of his campaign for a seat in the House of Commons.

Sir Alec is assured of an easy victory in the heavily conservative district.

"We are not lurching to the right," Douglas-Home said. "We are not lurching to the left. We are not lurching at all."

In a rebuttal to charges his former post as foreign secretary did not prepare him for domestic problems, Douglas-Home concentrated heavily on bread-and-butter issues.

Hayride Tractor Driver Killed

BRETHREN (AP)—A tractor overturned in this northwest lower Michigan community Friday night, killing a 15-year-old Brethren high school student, writing a tragic end to a school hayride. Michael Fredricks was killed when, police said, he apparently fell against the tractor's steering wheel, causing it to make a sharp turn and roll over. Three other youths were riding with Fredricks on the tractor, which was to have been used to pull a hay wagon for a freshman class hayride. They were not injured.

Division Parks Near Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Tanks and trucks of the 2nd Armored Division, whose men arrived in exercise Big Lift, rolled toward an assembly area near Frankfurt today, their smooth progress marred only by two accidents with civilian automobiles.

Two Germans were taken to a hospital after their small French-made automobile collided almost head-on with a tank on a highway near Darmstadt. The car was demolished.

In the second accident, an Italian-made compact car collided with a 10-ton truck near Mannheim. No one was injured.

The accidents occurred as the division finished its job of drawing heavy equipment from stockpiles and moved toward the assembly area in preparation for war games next week.

The Army said that the division, lifted from Texas earlier this week in an unprecedented long-range move by air, completed the equipment-drawing phase Friday night — 87 hours from the time the first transport left Ft. Hood, Tex.

Cubs Studying Indian Culture

BARK RIVER—Cub Scouts of Den 1 have had two interesting meetings recently. At the first the Cubs made an Indian encampment on a river bank in a woodland setting. It was complete with wild animals in the woods and Indians, teepees, canoes, totem poles, etc. in the village.

At the second meeting Den Mothers Mrs. Lloyd Olson and Mrs. Roger Quist took the Cubs to Hannaville where Mrs. Robert Petonquet gave a demonstration of basket making.

She showed all the steps from cutting black ash posts to the finished product.

The black ash posts are peeled, pounded to soften the wood, and stripped into very thin one inch wide strips. These are cut into various widths as needed. Some of these strips are dyed to use for color trim for the sewing, market baskets and hampers which she makes and sells. Many baskets have been bought by Wisconsin people as well as by local purchasers.

Seventy-three-year-old Mrs. Petonquet was born Emma Kesick, daughter of the late Jim Kesicks of Hannaville.

Cub Scouts in Den 1 are Stephen LeBeau, James Bash, Conrad Hill, Larry Olson, Lloyd Olson, Jr., Delore Quist, Tom Sundquist, Raymond LaBelle, Vernon Chase and Donald LaBelle. The Den Mothers' two small sons, Lyle Olson and James Quist, consider themselves junior Cub Scouts because they attend all the meetings with their mothers and participate in all activities. Roger Quist is den chief.

MRS. ROBERT PETONQUET, 73, of Hannaville works on black ash strips which she will weave into baskets like those shown in her home. She dyes some of the strips to get the decorative effects shown in her baskets.

CUB SCOUTS OF DEN 1, Bark River are pictured with Mrs. Robert Petonquet, 73-year-old basket handcraft of Hannaville. The den was taken to Mrs. Petonquet's home by Den Mothers Mrs. Lloyd Olson and Mrs. Roger Quist to further their studies of Indian culture in Menominee County. Some of Mrs. Petonquet's black ash baskets are pictured with the cubs.

Mortensen's career spans the history of Seney Refuge. He was the "protector" or the original 300 Canada geese, predecessor of the 1,200 or more resident geese now nesting and rearing young on this 96,000 acre refuge. As a foreman during the WPA and CCC days of the 1930's he was actively involved in the construction of the refuge dikes, water control structures, roads trails, and farm units.

His thorough, excellent work, contribution of worthwhile ideas, overall knowledge of the refuge, and his devotion and dedication to duty have been commended by the Wildlife Service.

Library Adds More Dailies

The circulation of the daily newspaper has grown from 56 million in 1955 to over 62 million in 1962. Americans devour more newspapers on buses, in trains, cars, planes, horseback or at home.

The Escanaba Carnegie Public Library, to help meet the demand placed on its newspaper collection, has recently added five newspapers to its present collection of seven.

Regular paper readers are aware that the library has been receiving the Escanaba Daily Press, The Delta Reporter, the Sunday New York Times, the Marquette Mining Journal, Barron's, and the Christian Science Monitor.

To these the library has added the following daily newspapers: Green Bay Press-Gazette, Minneapolis Star, Wall Street Journal, Detroit News, and the Lansing State Journal. All except the current issue can be checked out for home use.

The library keeps newspapers for a period of two months. "You are urged to come in and read some of these outstate and downstate papers," says Library Director Harry Court-right.

Soo Overpass At Marquette Open

MARQUETTE—A new $350,000 railroad overpass on the Marquette bypass has been opened by the State Highway Department.

The overpass carries the Soo Line Railroad tracks over the nearly completed US-41 and M-28 four-lane highway which skirts the southern edge of the city.

While the overpass was under construction, rail traffic used a temporary structure adjacent to the new overpass.

The overpass was built in conjunction with a $1 million project for a new four-lane by-pass which will remove through traffic from downtown Marquette. It will be opened to traffic later this year, barring poor construction weather.

Count Is Down In Deer Drives

Joseph Vogt, Conservation Department game supervisor in the Escanaba District, was warning that the deer count wouldn't mean much if it showed more deer in Delta than last year, so he's probably saying that the lesser count doesn't mean much either.

For one thing, some bow and arrow hunters got into one of the deer drive areas this week and they may have flushed the deer out and affected the drive count.

Three half section areas (320 acres or an oblong a half mile by a mile) were driven by 56 men from the Cusino Prison Camp on Thursday and Friday in an annual practice. More deer were found in the Lime-stone and Slapneck Creek areas, but fewer deer in the Ogontz area.

The net result wasn't changed much, said Vogt. It showed an average of 13 deer per half section compared with an average of 16 in 1962.

The Ogontz area, which pulled down the total average had about 10 bow hunters in the drive area. "We prefer an undisturbed population," said Vogt.

The drive areas and times had been reported publicly.

Vogt explained that the pre-hunting season drives are used only as indicators of deer presence in the areas and that hunting policies are not based by the Conservation Department on these findings.

Weather, human actions and other factors affect the counts, said Vogt, and he noted that while only 3 areas in the district have deer drives, the district has 60 sample plots for pellet counts in the spring. Last spring these pellet counts indicated 25 per cent more deer in the district than a year ago.

Conservation field officers keep a count of does observed in the field and the result of 11,000 hours of such observation this year in the district indicates a 20 per cent increase in deer over last year.

Car kills of deer are also up, but not much. There were 142 this year compared with 134 in the same period last year.

Mackie Predicts Interstate Road Plan Extension

PORTLAND, Ore.—Congress will authorize 10,000 to 20,000 additional miles of interstate highway when the present 41,000 miles are completed, the president of the American Association of State Highway Officials predicted here.

Michigan State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie also urged a speed-up in completion of the present system before the target date of 1972. "America is growing at a faster rate than Congress anticipated when it passed the Interstate Highway Act in 1956 and our traffic problems are multiplying."

"Everyone would benefit if the Interstate System were completed ahead of schedule. I would like to see all interstate highways in rural areas completed by 1970 and free-ways in urban areas completed by 1971."

The Upper Peninsula has only a 50-mile piece of the Interstate System from St. Ignace at the north end of the Mackinac Bridge, to Sault Ste. Marie at the end of the International Bridge to Canada.

He was in a special cast for the trip.

The long convalescence in St. Francis Hospital after the tragedy was eased for Carlson by Escanaba's kindness. Many persons remembered the teacher's plight. Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cousineau, 1201 N. 21st St., learned about him while visiting a family member in the hospital. After that on every evening of his convalescence Mr. and Mrs. Cousineau got a Detroit newspaper at Gust Asp's and took it to Carlson in the hospital.

U. N. Changing, Widening Forum, States Observer

United States participation in the United Nations should be beyond politics and pretty much is, Mrs. Doreen M. Gentile of Lathrup, Calif., an official U. N. observer said here Friday.

She addressed a public meeting in the State Office Building arranged by the Escanaba League of Women Voters.

Leaders of the U. S. delegation in U. N. have been selected on bipartisan basis—President Truman appointed Warren Austin, a Republican, to head the delegation at the first assembly and he held this office year after year, said Mrs. Gentile. Henry Cabot Lodge came in with the Eisenhower administration and then James Wadsworth. The last appointment that President Roosevelt made was that of Senator Arthur Vandenberg to the San Francisco conference which created the U. N. and he made a real difference in the kind of charter it got.

"We find that when we're dealing with world problems the U. N. is the avenue usually go through. This doesn't mean that the U. N. is our foreign policy, but it is an important part of our foreign policy."

"In the last session it was interesting to see all the nations of the world coming to the U. N. This was where our Secretary of State Rusk could meet with them. The nations are communicating in this building what the world was thinking."

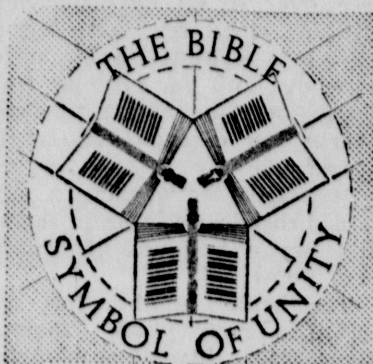

"Dr. Ralph Bunche told me just before I left what many people said to me this year: that the citizen of the United States needs to be made more aware of the other needs of the world besides the cold war and crises. There are needs of specialized agencies like disease, illiteracy and hunger. You can't talk of peace and security and justice when you know that over half of the people of the world are hungry, diseased and illiterate."

"You can't build a stable world until you have met these needs. Mrs. Roosevelt told me just before she died 'There are millions and millions of people who for centuries and centuries have accepted their way of life as inevitable and now they're accepting that same way of life as intolerable.'"

"This is a part of the social revolution of the world that is going to go on. The specialized agencies, some type of four foreign aid, the Peace Corps—these kinds of aid will prevail or this vacuum will be filled with another philosophy and another way of life. This is communism."

"This is what happened in the Congo. Russia was in and when the U. N. went in at the request of the Congolese government the Russians got out. A part of keeping the U. N. in the Congo is to keep the Communists out. As soon as you remove the U. N. you've left the struggle open to the great powers, and the great philosophies. The only stabilizing influence they have at this point of their history is the United Nations."

"I think the American public as a whole doesn't realize that the USSR of today is not the USSR of Lenin and Stalin. This is the first generation where the Russians have not been illiterate, where the Russians have not been a peasant Russia. And Khrushchev has to face this; he has to redefine communism because after 40 years there is a new generation that didn't know revolution and that needs a new non-illiterate Russia. We talk some-

The miracle of the Bible is that it never grows old. For you and me today it is the Book of the Year. But it has held that same position of importance for peoples of the world for centuries past. No matter how "modern" we might think our work or our way of living, a knowledge of the Bible remains a requirement of general intelligence. —Charles R. Injured Teacher Is Nearly Home; Children Waiting Duane Carlson, 31 year old school teacher from Garden City who was injured three months ago in an automobile accident, is finally going to California where his parents and children are anxiously waiting.

Carlson has been a patient at St. Francis Hospital here since Aug. 6 following the mishap that took the life of his wife. He is in a cast from his hip to ankle and with another on his right arm.

Jon Thorin reported this morning that the Cessna Sky-lane took off this morning around 3:15 a. m. with pilots Lee Hebert and Bob Roeder. The plane communicated here this morning around 9 from Topeka, Kan. where they made their first fuel stop. "All is well," Thorin said.

"They are expecting to arrive in Albuquerque, N. M. around 2 p. m. for another fuel stop and then on to Long Beach where they estimate it will be 7:30 p. m. EST or 5:30 Pacific Standard Time," he said.

Our Gorgeous Fall

The guilt complex must be deep in the human breast. The people in the Upper Peninsula who have said "We have had such a wonderful fall that we'll certainly have to pay for it with a wicked winter" would stretch from Goetzville to Eckerman.

Humans think that way, fearful that if the first falling apple drops in their hand the second will hit them on the head, but Nature doesn't. She will send a fine winter to cap a fine fall, but throughout the winter the fearful will expect the worst on the very next day.

The Upper Peninsula has had the finest fall in the memory of living persons. It has been sunny and balmy and dry. The only way to make it better is to make it longer and there seems to be a general hope that autumn mildness will run right up to Christmas and bring on an early spring.

The fall has been so mild that bird migrations have been out of whack. The birds decided that there was no use hurrying south when it was warm in the north and this has miffed Northern duck hunters, who are allotted the early part of the bang-bang to get their birds. If the birds aren't there the hunters get skunked and the duck hunting has been rather skunky so far.

Al Knutsen, East Lansing ornithologist, took a vacation to trap hawks and falcons on the tip of Stonington Peninsula and said the hot spell chopped off the migration. He did rather well anyway, but it was because he's such an expert, not because nature cooperated.

The fine weather heightens and extends the Silliness Season of weather prophecy. People are checking caterpillars to see if their "fur" is longer in augury of an extra cold winter. The onion skin prophets are counting the rings to see if nature has provided the tear-makers with extra strength for a hard winter. If it were easier, people would be climbing trees to see how many nuts the squirrels were putting in the bank as insurance against frostbite.

This school of nature fakirs expects the bears to add more fat, the bullfrogs to burrow deeper in the mud, the Arctic owls to come earlier and stay longer. It ascribes to wild creatures powers of clairvoyance; it knows in October what the weather in February will be like. Not even the fuel merchants know that.

And yet humans are so trusting that the Old Farmers Almanac is now in its 172nd year of publication, giving out weather hints that our meteorologists, with all their training and scientific instruments, would give their fortunes to know. Not only does the Almanac say what the weather will be like next year, but it suggests when to fish and how to pick a wife and what wisdom sounds like when contracted into short sentences.

It suggests for Saturday, Jan. 4, for instance "Eat to live, not live to eat" as well as the time of sunrise and sunset. And for the 9th of January that "ladies once in bed this day should stay there." (This is reckless counsel in a nation so heavily afflicted with absenteeism.) "Gray whales will be migrating on Jan. 17" and this may be hard to turn to profit, but it gives a person the good feeling that he's hep. Jan. 29: "As the days lengthen the cold strengthens."

On Tuesday, Feb. 4, 1761 Ebenezer Adams saw three angels in Medford, Mass., and this may not fit well into a weather forecast but it shows that meteorologists, too, are distracted at their prayers. On Feb. 13 in 1935 Bruno Hauptmann was found guilty and on Feb. 13, 1964 the crows will be around. This is a safe forecast as it doesn't say where the crows will be around.

And so it goes, but who will snoo at a formula that has worked since 1792? Our TV weather casts, for instance, are an advertising cheat compared with the Farmer's Almanac. TV's concept of the weather is that it was made by Nature for broadcast purposes, so it has cute girls saying profound things about a cold front moving in from the northwest and colliding with some lows that will cause sprinkle on Sandusky, Ohio.

The cute girls don't fully understand just what it is all about but they're hep enough to know that if weather could stand on its own feet without SA the station would have a meteorologist who understood it saying drear things about occluded fronts and isobars. Nary a word about perspiration or frozen fingers.

We'll know that TV weather has come of age when the people with the big black pencils who draw the arrows which show the wind blowing south over Lake Superior toss in Almanac pleasantries like:

"Snow fleas around!" (Perversely, we have these, but many people seem to think they're fictional, like type lice.)

"Graft your fruit trees."
"To lose an unwanted friend, loan him money."
"A small leak will sink a great ship."
"There's a time to wink as well as to see."
"Don't burn others' houses to roast your own eggs."
"Hill your Indian corn."
"He that complains hath too much."

These pleasantries may cause sponsor trouble but they offer a change from the weather, which, like the poor, is always with us and never responsive to our calls, often unfriendly, and seldom as indulgent as it has been this fall.

JERRY DOYLE, PHILADELPHIA DAILY NEWS

Edson In Washington Letters To The Press

By PETER EDSON
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — America is still the melting pot.

Anybody can come here—bad, indifferent or good—sneak a piece of his mind, get an audience, get away with it.

This has been proved again by the American visits of President Josip Broz Tito of Yugoslavia, Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu of Viet Nam and now President Victor Paz Estenssoro of Bolivia.

Tito and Mme. Nhu have made enemies in the United States. Both were therefore picketed on their Washington visits and inhospitable things were said about them. But this is a country of full freedom of speech—both ways.

Tito got invited to the White House. He was restrained, polite, grateful. Mme. Nhu—who didn't get invited to the White House—was voluble, charming, contradictory, honest in some of her criticisms of America, unjust in others.

But for the fact that Mme. Nhu's husband in Viet Nam was taking actions against the Buddhists which belied his wife's honeyed words in America, she might have been invited to the White House, too. This could have been in the spirit of mutual apology and forgiveness, to get on with winning the war.

That is what's really important—fighting the Communists—not indulging in personalities and mud slinging.

So with these unpleasant incidents out of the way, there is a change in pattern with the official White House visit of Paz, who brings only friendship, good news and a more hopeful outlook on Commie fighting.

Dr. Paz is an egghead professor of economics, a lawyer, and founder of the National Revolutionary Movement of Bolivia in 1941. He was exiled from his country from 1946 to 1952, when he returned to become its president after a real political, social and economic revolution that overthrew the old feudal autocracy in the poorhouse of the Andes.

Paz ruled four years without a Congress, and by decree nationalized the tin mines, gave suffrage to a population of 4 million—two-thirds illiterate and three-fourths Indian—instituted land reform, diversified the economy.

He encouraged organization of labor unions. At first they were dominated by Communists, and there is still a Communist leadership in some of the unions.

But Communist membership has dwindled, and the claim is now made that Castro efforts to infiltrate the labor movement have failed. For the Bolivian economy, after 10 years, is beginning to grow.

The Army of 10,000 men has been put to work a third of the time as a kind of Corps of Engineers or Peace Corps. They help the campesinos—the country people—with the digging of wells and building schools and access roads into the jungles.

The Indians who have lived in the 10,000 to 15,000-foot Andean highlands are beginning to come down into the valleys to become farmers and ranchers.

Bolivia hopes to be self-sufficient in food in the foreseeable future.

With co-operation from West Germany, the Inter-American Bank and the Alliance for Progress, a consortium has been formed to help finance this development.

The alliance doesn't like talk about "showcase" countries that demonstrate how American aid can help underdeveloped countries. But Bolivia today is said to come as close to that designation as any other.

It is not over the mountain yet. But it is one Latin American country which does not seem to be in great danger of a take-over by either the Communists or a military junta.

After his first term as president, Dr. Paz was out of office for four years. He was elected again in 1960.

The story he tells in the United States now is considered good news from an area where most of the news lately has been bad. And it takes away the bad taste left by Tito and Mme. Nhu.

Memory Lane

By J. R. LOWELL
Ten Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Vandenberg of 1307 First Ave. S. will observe their golden wedding anniversary on Oct. 28. Mr. Vandenberg is a retired official of the C&NW Railway.

The Gladstone Braves had a field day in their rout of Escanaba High School yesterday. The score 35-6, was the biggest upset Escanaba has suffered at the hands of this rival team since 1899.

Manistique men, 50 of them, will appear in black faces and outlandish costume at a minstrel show set for Oct. 30. The function is under the sponsorship of the Manistique unit of the VFW and under the direction of Miss Betty Love. Proceeds will provide a TV set at the Veterans Hospital at Iron Mountain.

Twenty Years Ago

Harry D. Brackett, head of the Brackett Chevrolet Co., has been named temporary secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Stephen Garber.

Pfc. Fred Legault of Manistique, who is with the armed forces in Australia, made the headlines a few days ago. He serves as an army cook and a few days ago prepared meals that were served Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt when she visited that sector.

"Small World" is the caption over a story telling how Ensign Frank Karas Jr., driving a Jeep in some sector of the South Pacific, became mired and called for help. A young soldier answered the summons. Imagine their amazement when they found that only a few years prior to that they both had played football on with Escanaba high school teams. The other young man was Pfc. Walter Johnson, also of Escanaba.

Thirty Years Ago

Stephen Bergman of Escanaba was elected vice president of the freshman class of Northern State Teachers College at its annual election yesterday.

Christopher Columbus' venture into the unknown was reenacted by grade school pupils at the Oliver Auditorium yesterday. Mary Agnes Boyce played the part of Queen Elizabeth, Ruth Lundgaard, of King Ferdinand; Charles Semer was Columbus and some twenty others played parts of court attaches and ladies in waiting.

Mrs. Mary Bouschor of Manistique left today for Detroit, for a few days visit and from there will go to Miami, Fla., to spend the winter.

Hazards of the Dark

This week a man was tried for hitting a boy on a bicycle. There have been several cases of other people being hit and injured or killed in our town and other nearby places. I believe this is due to the fact that it is so difficult for a driver to see a child or an adult after dark, even if they are wearing white. Then, too, you can never tell what they may do as they pop out at the most unexpected places into the path of the car.

These evenings are long and it is definitely dangerous for children to be playing in the street. When you come up to a group playing ball or tag after dark in the street—as many do—you can't possibly see where they all are. Not only is it dangerous for the children but it is a definite unwanted hazard for the drivers.

Isn't it possible for parents to suggest and provide a more suitable place to play than on the street?—A MOTHER

Finding The Way

Power Of Right Words

By RALPH W. LOEW, D. D.

During a recent visit to Russia we made arrangements to visit Peredelkino, telling our efficient guide that we desired to escape the heat and monotony of Moscow.

The guide was delighted to schedule the trip. This daughter of atheistic Communism said, "Thank God, you want to go to the country." Now she was visibly upset because of the denial of the trip by Intourist car. We could have gone on by taxi, but it seemed obvious that someone desired us not to go.

For Peredelkino is the burial place of Boris Pasternak, the distinguished poet and novelist. Many young people go there to read his translations of Shakespeare and his exciting poetry. So it was that we visited the castle of a prince where we saw the relics of a bygone era, instead of the grave of a contemporary genius who kept his spirit free.

It was only a gentle brush with authoritarianism but it served to underscore the constant problem. We sometimes make a maulin mess out of our freedom; yet from the vantage point of the climate where thought control is an accepted way of life, the advantage seemed enormous. It's as though you come out of a crowded place into a wide-open field where the wind is whipping the clouds across the sky and where there is the feel of freedom.

When one has come into this open field, he must understand its meaning.

What would you think of the man who lived in the open field and yet insisted on burrowing into an anthill? We don't have the problem of wondering whether we can visit the grave of a poet; ours is the problem of having the desire to read the poet.

We have the freedom to protest, but do we have the inner security that enables us to protest the things that matter most?

G. B. Shaw once said a bit cynically and presumptuously, "Few people think more than two or three times a year. I have made an international reputation by thinking once or twice a week."

It would be easy to shake the head sadly as we think of the denied visit to Peredelkino. It will be better if we think of our own willingness to be concerned about our own way of life.

It is easier to talk loudly of defending freedom than it is to act, live and think as free people.

It is easier to lament the denial of freedom in another land than to support the same freedom in one's daily life.

It is easy to be so busy that freedom vanishes by slow erosion instead of by the dramatic revolution.

It is good to know that today at Peredelkino there are young people of Russia who come to read the poetry of Pasternak.

House of the Week

Nation's Most Popular Split

STATELY SPLIT: This nine-room split level has four bedrooms, 2½ baths and an exceptionally efficient floor plan.

The attractively accented entrance is on grade level, adding space and privacy to the living room.

The ingredients of a good home design are no mystery to architects; the trick is to put them together in precisely the right combination, and that happens only rarely.

The most popular design ever to appear in the House of the Week series occurred back in February 1960. The home, a nine-room split-level met the immediate favor of the entire country. It offered the unusual combination that somehow answered a nation's need.

Today we're reprinting the plan by popular demand. It is design J-99 in the weekly series, by architect Rudolph A. Matern. It originally appeared as design X-96.

Dramatic living room, carefully integrated indoor-outdoor areas, clear separation of formal and informal zones, good circulation, original economy, easy maintenance—the house has all these features, and more, apparently arranged to the satisfaction of house hunters across the land.

There are four bedrooms on the sleeping level plus another small room on the ground level that could be used as a fifth bedroom. There's a big reception foyer, a family room that flows without interruption through sliding glass doors to a sunken terrace garden, a breakfast balcony overlooking the family room, a lovely large fireplace and bow window in the living room, efficient U-shaped kitchen layout, a short but glamorous bedroom balcony, and 2½ bathrooms.

All of these aids to peace of mind and modern living come in a design covering 1,727 square feet of space on living and bedroom levels, plus 511 on the ground level. Thanks to the inherent economy of split level design, this ground level living space—plus the two-car garage—comes at only half the normal building cost.

The easiest way to picture this economy feature of the split level is to think of a long ranch house built over a basement. Now think of this same ranch split in the center with the left half raised so that the basement floor of the raised half is even with the ground.

Total roof area is the same, perimeter walls are the same, yet you have increased the usable space by half. Basically, this is the great merit of the split. Often the advantage of this bonus space is frittered away by the use of small windows and design treatment which seems to forget the grade level is no longer basement, but the advantage is there nonetheless.

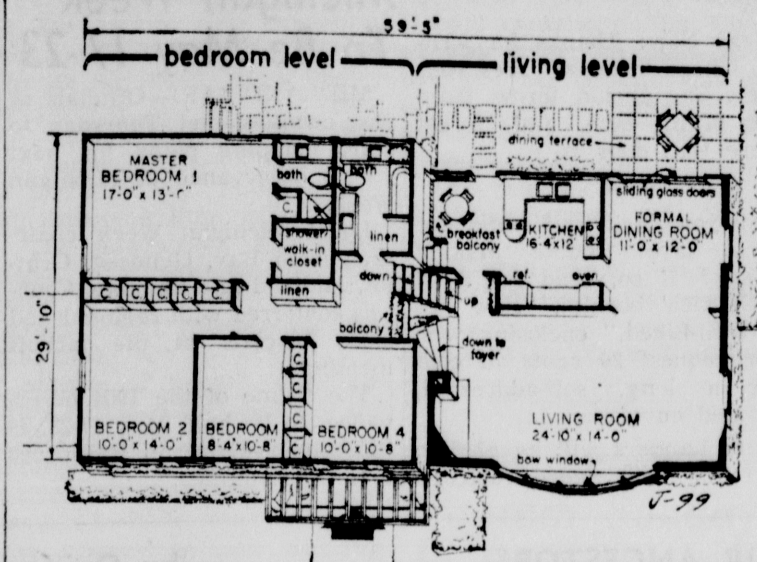

Principle device used to fully develop the split potential was locating the entrance on the ground level. This allows more space for the living room, gives the living room more separation, and at the same time aids circulation by providing a direct route from front door to family room and kitchen.

Over-all dimensions are 59' 5" in width by 29' 10" in depth. The exterior is a pleasing combination of natural stone and stained cedar shingles.

Additional Details
Extra attention was lavished on the front entrance of this design to give it a stately appearance. The double front doors are framed by brick columns on either side and an open trellis overhead.

A sloping lot is not a requirement for full exploitation. The home could be worked into level terrain by simple use of the fill obtained in excavation for the small basement section and the sunken rear garden.

FLOOR PLANS: Area of the home includes 1,727 square feet of space on the living and bedroom levels, plus 511 on the ground level. Because of the inherent economy of split level design the ground level living space—plus the two-car garage—comes at only half the normal building cost.

Another advantage of the grade level entrance is the fact that mud tracked in from the outside can be localized in the foyer, which has an easily cleaned slate-in-concrete floor. From the foyer, swinging doors lead to the family room and kitchen and a short curving stairway leads to the living room.

Bedrooms are eight steps up from the living level, providing adequate separation without demanding a long stair climb. The master bedroom is a generous 17x13 feet, with walk-in closet and private bath. The other three bedrooms are in a line across the front. Efficient grouping keeps hall space at a minimum.

Plans call for a basement the size of the living level. This is roughly half the roofed area of the house and sufficient for furnace and storage without the waste basement space frequently found in large ranch homes.

J-99 STATISTICS

A nine-room split level containing four or five bedrooms, 2½ baths. Area includes 1,727 square feet on living and bedroom levels plus 511 square feet of bonus space on ground level. Over-all dimensions are 59'5" wide by 29'10" deep. Exterior combines natural stone and stained cedar shingles.

LUXURY ON A GRAND SCALE: Artist's cutaway shows kitchen, breakfast balcony and family room linked by sliding glass doors with sunken terrace.

Buy Home On Charge Plate

(AP) Newsfeatures

Are we approaching the day when a woman will visit a department store, see the vacation house of her dreams and say "charge it" please?

It could happen. A step in that direction has been taken by one department store that is showing a second home completely furnished down to pot holders. All you do is put your money down ($90) and pay the balance at $73 a month for 30 years.

The mortgage for this house is assumed by the FHA and the builders of the house. It was furnished by the store. But who knows when some fearless merchant will reason that a long-term charge account can just as well cover a house as pianos, sofas and expensive antiques. If he stamps everything "final sale" he may not have a worry at all. The only hitch may be what to do with houses that are returned or reclaimed.

The particular house that debuted at Macy's in New York is designed for a family of four, and consists of a dining room, living room, kitchen, bath and den with Murphy wall beds. Extra sleeping areas are provided for in the living room, where a sofa may become a double bed. You can have the house wrapped up with all the furnishings for living and dining room for $12,990. Two additional bedrooms may be added for $3,000 with furnishings.

The house was designed to be built at Montauk, L. I., a vacation spot, by the firm of Raymond Loewy, William Snaith.

There is an elaborate choice of furniture styles and fabrics. Colors may be coordinated down to bathroom towels. The all-electric kitchen includes range, oven, refrigerator, dishwasher. Furnishings for the house were selected by Matthew Sergio of the American Institute of Interior Designers, head of the store's decorating department. He chose walnut furniture to

Mount Clemens Pet Shop Snake Brings Protests

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — Women and children are complaining that a pet shop owner feeds live guinea pigs to a seven-foot snake in the shop's window, the local humane society reported.

Frank E. Lohr, society president, said the society will ask City Council to outlaw "the exhibition of reptiles in pet stores."

Richard Kulik, owner of the downtown Mount Clemens pet shop, denied the boa constrictor "ever eats guinea pigs in public."

Kulik said he feeds the snake "a rodent, at night, in the store, in private."

He has been putting a guinea pig into the snake's cage in the window during the day, Kulik acknowledged, "but the snake is so glutted it won't bother the guinea pig."

A sign over the snake's cage says: "Seven-foot long boa constrictor—$19.85. It eats people."

Ann Landers

Novel Idea Nixed

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter Belinda who is 16 belongs to a club. There are 25 members, all high school girls between 15 and 18 years of age. They do some interesting things and raise money for good causes. My husband and I always thought it was a worthwhile group.

Last night our daughter told us that they are planning a raffle. The tickets will sell for 25 cents apiece. The first prize is a date with Belinda—all expenses paid. My husband was absolutely horrified. He said no daughter of his is going to sell her time like a you-know-what. Frankly, I thought it was a rather ingenious idea and saw nothing wrong with it.

Belinda was terribly disappointed. She thought it was a high honor to have been selected as the "prize." We have decided to leave it up to you. Is it immoral as my husband says? Or is he being square and old-fashioned as my daughter says? — TWO AGAINST ONE

Dear Mother: Sorry, dear, but I just evened the odds. Novel? Yes. But speaking strictly as a mother I wouldn't want my daughter raffled off as if she were a kewpie doll at a tent-show. Since the girls seem to be so full of novel ideas let them think of something else.

Dear Ann Landers: A few days ago one of the women in the office mentioned that she had a fairly expensive handbag which she had carried only a few times. She recently married and her husband doesn't like the bag. She asked if I could use it and I suggested that she bring it in and I'd see. This morning she brought the bag in and I liked it. I thanked her warmly for her generosity and told her I appreciated her thinking of me. She then said, "I didn't mean it as a gift. I had in mind selling it to you." We were both terribly embarrassed and I told her I didn't wish to buy it.

All my life I've been giving away clothes. I wouldn't dream of selling anything to a friend. Will you please tell me if I am stupid or if she is just too commercial to be considered a friend? Thank you.—BAGLESS

Dear Bagless: Generally speaking it's a bum idea to sell used articles to a friend. Rarely do both parties feel they made a good deal.

In this instance the girl should have made it clear from the outset that she wanted to sell the bag. Her failure to do this put you in a difficult position and it didn't do much for the friendship.

Dear Ann Landers: I was very much interested in the letter signed, "Keeper Of The Closet Keys." This woman wanted to know if she should tell her grown children that their father who had been dead 15 years was really a scoundrel, rotten to the core, and not the fine man she had taught them to believe he was.

The reason? Well, she was having an affair with some joker who promised to marry her "when he retires" in 1966. Her children did not approve of her traveling with this man since they are not yet married. Her attitude was, "Why should they criticize me when I protected their father's reputation for so many years? I'm an angel compared with what he was."

I have some news for the foolish woman. Discrediting her dead husband in the eyes of his children won't make her look one bit better. And, furthermore, this guy won't marry her in 1966 or 1976 either.—WISER NOW

Dear Now: Thanks for writing. I hope "Keeper" sees your letter. She should throw those keys in the lake and forget where that door is.

Do you lack self-confidence? Have trouble making friends? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

Sharon K. Cormier And Michael B. Wagner Wed

In a double ring wedding ceremony performed today at St. Patrick's Church Sharon K. Cormier became the bride of Michael B. Wagner. Rev. Thomas Coleman was celebrant of the Nuptial High Mass at 10 a. m.

Mrs. Robert Vadnais, soloist sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" and "Ave Verum" accompanied by Peter Sabourin. She sang "On This Day" as the bride placed a bouquet at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

Parents of the bridal couple are Escanaba residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cormier, 215 S. 18th St., and Mr. and Mrs. Nick G. Wagner, 1109 2nd Ave. S.

Adventists Hold Observance Of Temperance Day

"You will never understand the danger of alcoholism until you accept the fact that alcohol is a potentially addiction-producing drug."

So said Robert St. Clair, temperance secretary of the Escanaba Seventh-day Adventist Church, as he invited members to unite today with other Adventist Churches around the world in supporting their world temperance program.

St. Clair, quoting from an article in "Listen" magazine, an educational publication published by the denomination to encourage an alcohol- and narcotics-free way of life said, "It is quite possible to be a moderate drinker for years and then under stress become an alcoholic."

Richard Wagner was best man for his brother with Willard LaMarche as groomsman. William Elliot and Herb Scheriff seated the guests.

Mrs. Cormier chose a biege knit suit with brown accessories for her daughter's wedding and the bridegroom's mother wore a black and white knit suit with matching accessories. They were presented with corsages in fall shades.

At the reception from 4 to 8 p. m., at the Sherman Hotel Julie Prass will cut cake, Cheryl Olson will pour punch and Mrs. James Trotter and Mrs. Herb Scheriff will have charge of the gifts. The Bible-shaped cake was made by the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Anthony Shomin.

After a wedding trip through Minnesota the newlyweds will return to reside at 517 S. 9th St.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Holy Name High School. The bride is employed by Michigan Bell Telephone and her husband is with Escanaba Division, Mead Corp.

Bridal Gown

For her wedding the bride selected a gown of white silk tulle with long tapered sleeves and portrait bodice was fashioned with long tapered sleeves and portrait bodice decorated the skirt and bodice with sequins and pearls as trim on the neckline and bodice. The full bouffant skirt swept to a chapel train with a bustle bow in back. Her dainty Alencon lace crown highlighted with seed pearl and crystal trim held a waist length veil of pure silk illusion. She carried a cluster of three white orchids with trailing ivy.

Susan Wagner, a sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and Diane LaCrosse, a cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. They wore ballerina length dresses of gold satin with three quarter length sleeves. The bell shaped skirts featured a cabbage rose at the waist with a swirling stem. Matching headpieces and shoes were worn. They carried cascade bouquets of mums in fall shades.

Michigan State Gives Daugherty Five Year Offer

EAST LANSING (AP) — The luck of the Irish has taken the wrong bounce for any Notre Dame partisans who figured that Michigan State football coach Duffy Daugherty might be moving to South Bend, Ind.

The Michigan State University board of trustees, in an unprecedented move Friday, gave Daugherty what amounts to a five-year job guarantee. The board pledged to keep him "for at least the next five years."

MSU President John Hannah said the move should bury current rumors that Daugherty was about to make a change. Specifically, the reports had it that 48-year-old coach was being wooed by Notre Dame, and that Duffy was interested in coaching the Fighting Irish.

Shue Returns To Pro Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Shue, whose 1,712 points during the 1959-60 season set a National Basketball Association scoring record for guards, signed Friday for another year with the New York Knicks. Shue, 32, a nine-year veteran in the NBA, announced his retirement last spring after playing one season with the Detroit Pistons when he set his scoring record. A Detroit-New York trade in the summer of 1962 sent Shue to the Knicks in exchange for Darral Imhoff and cash.

Lack Of Ice; No Ski Jumps

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A ski jumping contest on an ice-incline in Dodger Stadium was postponed Friday night. The reason: insufficient ice.

Three of four ice-making machines blew fuses, and the fourth wasn't up to the job of icing the entire 165-foot ski run. Three thousand fans got rain-check tickets for shows scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

Coach Earle Has Aces:

Crusaders Beat Emeralds For Seventh Grid Victory

By RAY CRANDALL
Daily Press Sports Editor

MANISTIQUE — Coach Bill Earle dealt himself a pair of aces in the final hand of the Upper Peninsula high school football season here Friday night.

Halfback Bill Curtis and fullback John Quinn punched out two touchdowns apiece and piled up big yardage figures to lead Holy Name to a 27-13 victory over the Manistique Emeralds in the season finale.

The triumph was Holy Name's seventh in eight starts this fall. Manistique closed its books on the 1963 campaign with four victories, four setbacks.

Curtis capped his Crusader grid career with an impressive running exhibition, gaining 162 yards in 17 trips. Quinn, also playing his last grid game for Holy Name, picked up 90 yards in 18 carries.

The Crusaders scored touchdowns in the first, second and third periods to build up a 20-0 cushion before Coach Dick Bonifas' scrappy Emeralds found the scoring combination against a rugged Holy Name defense.

Gain 406 Yards

Holy Name, alternating Curtis on sweeps with Quinn up the middle, churned the turf for 290 yards rushing and quarterback Frank Trotter connected on eight of 15 passes for 116 yards.

Manistique gained 104 yards on the ground and completed five of 10 tosses for 99. Halfback Murray Patz led the Emerald runners with 58 yards in 12 trips.

The Emeralds were unable to move with the opening kickoff and punted from their 41. Holy Name drove 40 yards to cross midfield before fumbling a pitchout with Manistique recovering.

A high snap from center on fourth down sailed over punter Jon Cameron's head and Holy Name took over on the Manistique 25. Four plays later Quinn cracked through the middle for four yards to give Holy Name a 6-0 lead.

Curtis Gets Loose
Cameron got off a 47 yard boot to the Holy Name 29 early in the second period and the Crusaders marched 71 yards in 11 plays. Curtis broke loose for a 55 yard scamper to set up the TD and he raced six yards around his right end for the score. Jim Berish booted the point to make it 13-0.

Manistique gambled and lost the ball on downs on the Holy Name 34. The Crusaders hit paydirt moments later on a 20 yard pass from Trotter to Mike LaFleur but the play was wiped out by a penalty. Time ran out as Trotter missed LaFleur in the end zone on the next play.

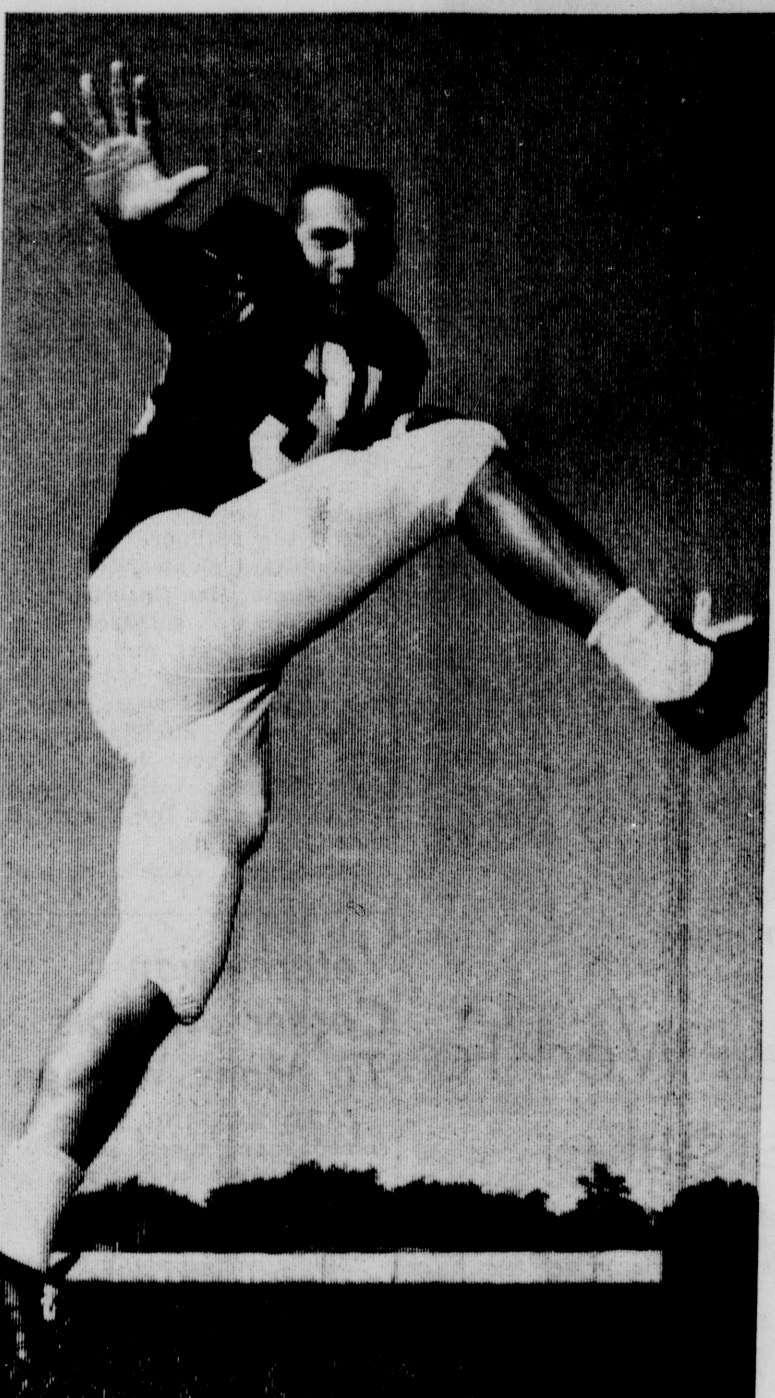

Holy Name drove again in the early part of the third period but Curtis fumbled and Patz recovered for the Emeralds on the Manistique 20.

Again the Emeralds failed on a fourth down try and they gave up the ball on the Holy Name 39. The Crusaders drove it home in nine plays with Curtis sweeping left from the three. Berish kicked to make it 20-0.

Razzle - Dazzle Pass

On the final play of the third period the Emeralds worked a razzle-dazzle pass from end Cameron to end Fran Weber for 60 yards and a touchdown to cut their deficit to 20-6.

Holy Name lanced right back with a 71 yard drive in 10

JIM TROTTER, former Holy Name football, basketball and track athlete, is a fullback on the St. Thomas College football team this fall. Trotter, 6-foot, 3-inch 196 pounder, has started three of this season's first four games. He is rated a powerful runner and a good blocker by his coach.

Rudolph Boosts Lead At Fresno

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Mason Rudolph likes to golf in California because he can't read the big "E" on eye charts.

Sound confusing? Mason has an explanation: "I like to play out here this time of year because we catch the best weather. Playing with glasses in the rain we would get most anywhere else puts me at a disadvantage."

"I certainly have to wear the glasses because I can't see the big 'E' without them." But the specs don't have windshield wipers.

His first two rounds at the $25,000 Fresno Open also make Mason partial to autumn golf in California. He fired a 67 Friday to go with Thursday's first-round 66 and took a five-stroke lead into Saturday's third round.

Rudolph, 29, now playing out of Lehigh Acres, Fla., after a student golfing career at Memphis State, admits that his thick glasses get his vision down to practically 20-20.

His sight was good enough to convince him Friday that a second shot at the 430-yard 17th hole required a five-iron, not the six he first selected.

He promptly belted the ball six inches from the cup to set up his most spectacular of six birdies in a 34-33 round at the 7,181-yard, par 36-36—72 San Joaquin Country Club course.

The five-stroke edge is the biggest he's ever held in a professional tournament. But he was four blows ahead after three rounds at the Portland, Ore. Open a month ago and lost that one in a playoff to Canadian George Knudson. Knudson is in fourth place at Fresno, seven strokes off the pace with a 71-69-140. Tommy Aaron is second with 68-70-138 and Buster Cupit is third at 71-68-139.

African Golf Team Is Ahead

PARIS (AP) — Retief Waltman, a little known South African golfer, shrugged off talk that Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer still would take the Canada Cup trophy and said: "No matter how well the Americans are playing, I'm sure we can take them."

Waltman, a 25-year-old former mounted policeman, and Gary Player led the team standings at the end of the second with a total of 277.

Nicklaus and Palmer are in a three-way tie for second place with a 278. Canadians Stan Leonard and Al Balding and Spaniards Sebastian Miguel and Ramon Sota also have 278 totals.

Players from 33 countries play one more round today and another Sunday to decide the team and individual competitions.

Player and Balding are in a tie for the individual prize with a two-round total of 138. They are followed by Miguel, Sota, Palmer, Nicklaus and Waltman at 139.

Waltman joined with Player for this tournament after threatening to quit big-time golf three or four times because he thought he would never hit the big time.

Detroit Lands New Linebacker

DETROIT (AP)—Pressed for linebackers because an injury to team captain Joe Schmidt, the Detroit Lions football club Friday picked up Monte Lee on waivers.

Lee, a 6-foot-4, 220-pounder, played with the Philadelphia Eagles in 1961. Later that year he became the property of St. Louis Cardinals. Lee served a stint in the army and was released two weeks ago.

The Cardinals put the 25-year-old former University of Texas player on the waiver list this week. The Lions were the only National Football League team to claim him.

Schmidt, a bulwark of the Lions' defense, dislocated his left shoulder in last Sunday's game with Baltimore. He is expected to be sidelined at least two or three weeks.

Carter Is Upset By Joey Archer

NEW YORK (AP) — It was like old times at the Garden—no television, a good-sized crowd, noisy fans, a controversial split decision, and a blast from the loser.

Joey Archer, the handsome pride of the Bronx, used a snapping left jab and fast feet to gain an upset, 2-1 verdict from the officials over aggressive, harder-hitting Rubin Carter of Paterson, N.J., in a lively 10-rounder Friday night.

Boxing writers polled at the ringside had it 9-5 in favor of Carter, the 2-1 betting choice.

The first non-TV show since colorful Cassius Clay packed the house seven months ago drew 8,592 customers and $36,417. Clay and Doug Jones lured a capacity crowd of 18,732 and $104,943.

With the victory over the fighter who had been ranked as the No. 1 middleweight contender by the World Boxing Association, Archer said "I'm going to see the boxing commission Monday and make an official challenge for a title fight with Dick Tiger."

He'll have to wait a while. Tiger, the world champion from Nigeria, defends his crown next against Joey Giardello at Atlantic City, N.J., Dec. 7.

Referee Art Mercante, 5-4-1, and judge Tony Castellano, 6-4, voted for Archer. Judge Al Berli had it 5-4-1 for Carter. The Associated Press scorecard had Carter in front, 6-3-1.

"I won the fight," Carter growled. "I made the fight by going after him. I should have gone after him a lot harder though to make sure."

Illinois Rallies To Beat UCLA; Top Teams Ready

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The college football season hits the halfway mark this weekend with Texas, Wisconsin and Pitt, the nation's 1-2-3 teams meeting Rice, Ohio State and Navy.

Illinois, No. 4, came from behind to beat UCLA 18-12 in an intersectional game Friday night at Los Angeles. Richmond and Virginia Military battled to a 7-7 tie in a Southern Conference game at Richmond.

Behind 10-0 at the half, underdog UCLA stunned the Illini with two third period touchdowns by Byron Nelson to go ahead 12-10. The Big Ten team pulled it out in the last quarter on a 62-yard march that ended with fullback Jim Grabowski diving over from the 1. Rich Callaghan grabbed a pass from Fred Custardo for a two-point conversion to wind up the scoring.

Illinois' first half points came on a 21-yard run by Sam Price and Jim Plankenhorn's 25-yard field goal. Nelson's touchdowns for UCLA came on a 24-yard run with an intercepted pass and on a seven-yard aerial he caught from Larry Zeno.

The No. 1 Texas Longhorns, who have won five straight, have no illusions about Rice. The underdog Owls spoiled a perfect season for the Longhorns a year ago by gaining a 14-14 tie. This is a night game at Austin.

The No. 2 Wisconsin Badgers 4-0, are at home to Ohio State and they fear the Buckeyes may be on the rebound after losing to Southern California last week. Pitt, also 4-0, invades Navy at Annapolis. The meeting between the No. 3 and No. 10 ranked teams pits two of the country's best players against each other—Paul Marth of Pitt and Roger Staubach of Navy.

Those who like to watch their college football with their feet propped up at home on Saturdays can take in the Notre Dame at Stanford game on national television, starting at 3:30 p.m. EST.

Pairings for the remainder of the Top Ten in The Associated Press poll find Mississippi, No. 5, at Vanderbilt; Houston at Alabama, No. 6; Oklahoma, No. 7 at Kansas State and Michigan State at Northwestern, No. 9. Auburn, No. 8, has an open date.

Also, Dartmouth puts its 15-game winning streak on the line against Harvard and Princeton, unbeaten and untied like Dartmouth, tangles with Cornell in another vital Ivy League game. Down South, unbeaten Duke battles North Carolina State in an important Atlantic Coast Conference struggle. Louisiana State meets Florida, Georgia Tech takes on Tulane and Mississippi State engages Memphis State.

Topflight pairings in other sections of the country include Arkansas-Tulsa; Missouri-Iowa State; Oregon - Washington; Southern California - California; Michigan - Minnesota; Iowa - Purdue and Colorado-Nebraska.

Knicks Notch First Victory

By The Associated Press
The New York Knicks won just 21 of 80 games in the National Basketball Association last season. At the rate they are going in the opening weeks of the current campaign they are liable to wind up this season with only 16.

After losing their first four the Knicks came through their initial victory of the season Friday night, 136-112 over the Philadelphia 76ers. At this pace they will win two of every 10 games and finish the 80-game campaign with a 16-64 won-lost record.

The Los Angeles Lakers whipped the Cincinnati Royals 122-109 in Friday's other scheduled NBA game.

Buffalo's Tough Luck Continues; Kochman Injured

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Buffalo Bills have to be the toughest club of pro football this season.

Going into tonight's home game with the Boston Patriots, the Bills already have lost seven men for the season. The latest was Roger Kochman, former Penn State halfback, who never will play football again after suffering a knee separation.

The list of Buffalo's maimed and wounded who will see no more service this year includes halfbacks Wray Carlton, Fred Brown and Kochman, defensive backs Billy Atkins and Jim Johnson, linebacker Jim Moss and tackle Dick Hudson.

The Bills, picked by many to win the Eastern Division of the American Football League, take a disappointing 2-1 record into the game with Boston. The Pats were shaken early by injuries to quarterback Babe Parilli but have moved into a tie for the division lead with a 4-3 record with Parilli back in action.

New York's Jets, losers of two straight on the road after an auspicious start, face the battered Denver Broncos at the Polo Grounds in the other Saturday night pro game. The Jets are favored.

Seven games in the National Football League and two more in the AFL will complete the pro schedule Sunday.

Both the New York Giants and Baltimore Colts approach the do-or-die point. The Giants must win at Cleveland to stay alive in the Eastern Conference. A defeat would drop them three full games back of the unbeaten Browns. Baltimore also must beat Green Bay to stay in the race in the Western Conference where the Packers and Chicago Bears share the lead at 5-1.

Philadelphia limps into Chicago to meet the Bears, still smarting after that upset in San Francisco. Charlie Johnson of St. Louis and Norm Snead of Washington will be the opposing pitchers at Washington where everybody scores. Tom Landry is quarterback for his Dallas Cowboys at Pittsburgh where the Steelers need a win to stay close.

Fran Tarkenton of the Minnesota Vikings won't have to contend with Joe Schmidt. Detroit's fierce middle linebacker, in their game at Detroit because Schmidt is out for perhaps a month with a dislocated shoulder. The San Francisco - Los Angeles game in the Coliseum is a dead even affair. Each team won its first game last week.

It will be teacher vs. pupil again at San Diego when Sid Gillman of the Chargers faces Al Davis, his former assistant and now head coach at Oakland. In the other AFL game, Houston hopes to reverse an earlier defeat when it meets the Chiefs at home. Loss of Abner Haynes puts a crimp in the Kansas City attack.

Younger Sister Says Mrs. Nhu Harms Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The younger sister of Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu challenged the fiery first lady of South Viet Nam today to return home and give up politics "before she does more harm to our country."

Speaking out in an emotion-charged interview on the ninth anniversary of President Ngo Dinh Diem's election, Mrs. Tran Le Chi said sadly:

"I think there is nothing to rejoice about this year. The situation is even worse than it was before President Ngo Dinh Diem and his family came to power. The people were not as unhappy then as they are now."

"I am a Catholic," she said. "I am really sad for the Catholics in Viet Nam because the work of so many missionaries for so long will be lost because of the action of this family."

"I would like the Catholics of America to understand that this struggle is not between Catholics and the Buddhists. Even the Catholics are suffering from this situation."

The Diem family, as well as Mrs. Nhu, are Roman Catholics. She said that "the Buddhists are like you and me and it is not easy for a monk to give up his life."

"But when they have a feeling of injustice is too strong this is the only way that they can speak. The people of Viet Nam are peaceful, quiet and philosophic. Now they burn themselves to death because they cannot speak otherwise."

She said that Ngo Dinh Nhu should "tell his wife to stop talking and give up politics. Nhu President Diem's brother, is considered by many to be the real power in the regime. Country by not staying at home. I think she has harmed her of Viet Nam as well as the and she has harmed the women men."

Tran Le Chi shares the attractive appearance of her sister as well as an ability to speak with great pungency.

She said that originally her sister and Ngo Dinh Nhu, were poor people "and they were nice people."

"Since they have been in power they have changed a lot. Really, I think they have lost touch with the people of Viet Nam."

State Develops Forest Camps

Development work has started under the Accelerated Public Works Program which will add some 140 campsites for recreationists and sportsmen by next summer at seven state forest campgrounds in Northern Michigan, according to the Conservation Department.

The projects are designed to provide new jobs where they are needed most as well as to help meet growing outdoor needs. They are located on the Big Cedar River, Menominee county; Hog Island Point, Mackinac County; Bay City Lake, Mackinac County; Lake Margrethe, Crawford County; Bells Bay, Charlevoix County; Tomahawk Lake, Presque Isle County; and at Ossineke Campground, Alpena County.

Additional state forest campground development will be launched next spring under the APW program. Costs of this work are being financed by state and federal monies on a 50-50 basis.

Collared Geese Helping Studies

Don't think it's a Halloween prank if you should see Canada geese in Michigan this fall which are wearing orange collars with black numerals and letters.

Some 200 honkers have been marked at the Seney National Wildlife Refuge to study their movements, and federal game men are now asking Michigan residents to keep them posted on the birds' whereabouts.

Persons spotting orange-collared geese are urged to contact the national refuge or Conservation Department. They are asked to tell when, where and how many of the birds they sighted. Hunters who happen to shoot these marked geese are reminded to include each collar's serial number in their reports.

Boards Asked To Clinic Meet

The semi-annual luncheon meeting of the U. P. Child Guidance Clinic will be held at the new office of the Escanaba Area Branch, 1229 Sheridan Road, at noon Thursday, Nov. 7.

President Richard F. O'Dell of the Clinic said "Legislatively much has happened in the area of mental health at both state and federal levels and Dr. William H. Kelly, assistant director, Michigan Department of Mental Health will discuss rules and regulations set up by the Department to implement legislation."

"Since the legislation, although permissive, primarily involves the participation of the county boards of supervisors, I am extending this invitation particularly to members of the county boards and I hope each board will have a representative at this meeting."

The Escanaba Area Child Guidance Clinic is one of the branches of the Clinic at Marquette. It is staffed by the Michigan Department of Mental Health. Other branches are at the Sault, Hancock and Ironwood.

The Upper Peninsula chapter of the Michigan Council on Family Relations will hold its annual meeting in Marquette Nov. 8 at Hotel Northland from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. The theme is "Mobility: A Challenge to the Family Program."

Keynoting the program will be Dr. Alice C. Thorpe, head of the Department of Home Management and Child Development, Michigan State University, on changing family roles, adjustments for families that move and those that are left behind during population shifts. "The report will be especially applicable to conditions in the Upper Peninsula," says Mrs. Olive Sain, U. P. president.

A symposium and question period on family mobility concerns, as seen by religious leaders, law enforcement officers, educators, social welfare administrators, and military personnel will follow.

Girl Scouts OK Council Coverage

Delegates to the national convention of Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. in Miami voted to reaffirm the organization's objective of nationwide council coverage.

Council coverage is a 17-year-old plan to cover every square mile of the U. S. A. with strong Girl Scout councils, touching border to border and each having within its jurisdiction the resources to provide the full Girl Scout program for all girls who want it. Approximately 90 per cent of the Girl Scouts' girl membership already is within such councils.

Label Threat On Mink Answered

Answering a trademark warning from the EMBA Mink Breeders Association, the United Mink Producers Association (UMPA) promises that if EMBA files a federal court suit in the trademark dispute "we will vigorously defend and counterclaim in any court action you see fit to bring."

The UMPA telegram was sent to EMBA officials in answer to the trademark warning telegram sent by EMBA earlier this week.

EMBA had said use of the UMPA trademark on mutation mink "would cause confusion in the trade and among members of the public with the trademark EMBA which for many years had been used exclusively in the field of mutation mink."

UMPA answered: "We wonder if your lawyers have been advised that UMPA's trademark, a legitimate abbreviation of our organization's name . . . was issued to us officially by the United States Patent Office March 19, 1953, for use for all fur pelts in Class 1, as a collective mark, first used in 1932 and thereafter."

"EMBA's mark was first registered in 1955, based on a claimed original use of Aug. 30, 1948, limited to mink fur pelts of Class 1."

"If EMBA by its actions created confusion with UMPA's prior registration and use of its mark, EMBA created the situation it now complains of. We are so advised by both our corporation and trademark counsel."

"We recognize anyone has the right to start a lawsuit and we are unable to prevent you from doing so. If you do take such action, we assure you we will counter claim in the same suit, and demand that the court declare our full rights in our prior registered mark, and limit EMBA's use of its mark so that it does not create the confusion that you say would exist."

The UMPA - EMBA controversy affects Upper Peninsula's mink ranchers, who market their pelts through both co-operatives and also through Great Lakes Mink Association. Great Lakes and UMPA have specialized in marketing dark mink and EMBA in mutation pastels and now UMPA plans to enter the pastel market.

Permits For All In 12 Areas Of Special Hunting

A record 261,900 permit applicants will know by Nov. 8 if they may hunt antlerless deer in Northern Michigan during the state's November firearm season, the Conservation Department reports.

Cards are ready to be mailed for return mailing, following this week's automated drawings in which some 101,300 successful entries were machine-selected for 34 over-subscribed special areas. Approximately 206,700 applicants were assured of receiving permits before the streamlined "luck of the draw" got underway. These sportsmen applied for 12 areas in which the number of cards fell short of permit quotas. Some 10,500 applications had to be rejected had to be rejected because they were incorrectly filled out, or failed to meet the Oct. 10 post-marking deadline.

All told, about 146,000 permits will be issued for antlerless deer hunting in 46 food-shortage and crop-damage areas next month. Department officials look for permit holders to take 17,000 antlerless whitetails in the Upper Peninsula and 43,000 in the northern Lower Peninsula this season.

Firearm hunters with permits will be allowed one deer of any age or sex in the 46 special areas. They must stay within the particular areas for which their permits were issued to hunt antlerless deer. However, they may shoot bucks outside these areas.

Statewide, gun-toting hunters are expected to kill 60,000-65,000 bucks in November. Barring bad hunting conditions, buck take should approach 17,000 above the Straits and upwards of 40,000 in the northern Lower Peninsula. A record harvest of 6,000-7,000 bucks is anticipated in the southern Lower Peninsula where deer numbers are building up at a rapid rate.

Garry Leads In Oat Plot Trial

Oat variety trials were run this year in Menominee, Alger, Ontonagon, Chippewa and Delta Counties, says J. L. Heirman, Delta County Extension director. The purpose of the trials is to compare yields in order to make proper recommendations to farmers.

This year the Garry variety outyielded four other varieties that grew in the plot. The other varieties were Ajax, Rodney, Portage and Dodge. Next to Garry in yield were Ajax and Rodney. Portage and Dodge were new and not grown on a commercial basis in Michigan.

These two new oats are earlier maturing. But the yield in some trials were only 5 per cent that of Garry. "This means we will not recommend them for acreage planting," said Heirman.

"We are told that two new ones will soon be released for trials namely, Coachman and Ausable. These two new ones were developed by researchers at Michigan State University. Farmers in the U. P. are looking for an oat that is a good yielder like Garry, but one that matures earlier."

Claude Ebling Is Retiring As Soo Ag Agent

Claude O. Ebling, who for 20 years has conducted mixtures of legerdemain and legumes for farm audiences throughout the Upper Midwest, retires Nov. 1 as the Soo's general agricultural agent.

Ebling holds the undisputed title of champion speaker on the Soo's staff—more than 3,000 talks since 1950. Each has been, to use his term, a bit of "farm magic philosophy"—a magic show, some scientific farming, and a good word for the railroad for which he has been a principal agricultural barometer since 1927.

A graduate of North Dakota State College, former agricultural instructor and former county agent, Ebling came to the Soo as agricultural development agent. He resigned in 1934 to become county agent in Rusk and Douglas counties, Wisconsin, and later editor of the Stock and Dairy Farmer. In 1950, he rejoined the Soo's traffic department staff as general agricultural agent. Each year since he has traveled at least 35,000 miles to acquaint farmers with scientific agricultural methods.
